

Web Hosting

Written by u4david

Websites that I design, I will host and serve them from my own server. I take care of domain registration, email set up, and other tasks related to this complex process. This allows me to have instant propagation of any changes, without lag. You know where to find me if you have questions. No automated answering system but a live person who is here to help you out. After all, I designed all this in my free time to fulfil my curiosity, so you know that I am enthusiastic about what I do here.
