

Would you like to learn how to use a computer or an application or are you just plainly frustrated being lost in the digital world? Currently there are a lot of commercial products and even larger chunks of free operating systems, programs, and platforms Including a whole variety of unknowns. If only one knew how to use them. If you have the urge to get on top of it all, let's make a effort, and we could both learn valuable lessons from today's technology.